We never stop innovating, sweating the detail, pushing the possibilities of every pixel.

We are always working on the next big thing, so you can imagine yours.

ZERO DENSITY POV

We are not just selling tools, we are not just selling effects. We are selling possibility. Most people buy drills to hang beautiful pictures, not to make beautiful holes, or to show off the drill to their buddies. We are in the business of benefits - we help people create beautiful worlds, tell amazing stories - how do we communicate this?

In some cases it is not ideal to use the horizontal logo. In that case you can use a more compact variation of the logo.

THE SYMBOL

This is the Zero Density symbol. The symbol can be used on its own in certain, specific situations when the context and association with Zero Density is clearly established and controlled (example: Zero Density presentations), or when the Zero Density brand is meant to take on a secondary, supporting role (example: an individual's profile or a digital content publication (owned media).

OUR COLORS

ZERO DENSITY ORANGE

Orange is for creativity, youth and enthusiasm
Orange is a very vibrant and energetic color. In its muted forms it can be associated with the earth and with autumn. Because of its association with the changing seasons, orange can represent change and movement in general.

ZERO DENSITY GREEN

The color of luck and revitalization.
From its enlightened perspectives to its soothing essence, we can all benefit from making friends with this inspiring color.Seafoam green is a shade of green, which has strong associations with nature and the environment as it is the color of trees, grass and forests. It is seen as the color of luck, freshness, and renewal.

ZERO DENSITY ORANGE 2
Orange is also strongly associated with creativity. Because orange is associated with the fruit of the same name, it can be associated with health and vitality. In designs, orange commands attention without being as overpowering as red. It's often considered more friendly and inviting, and less in–your–face.

ZERO DENSITY PURPLE

Purple is for luxury, mystery and spirituality
Whether you call it purple or violet, it's that deep shade made by mixing blue and red that communicates things like decadence and royalty when it's dark and fun and whimsy when it's light. Purple is a lot of things. It's mysterious. It's magical. It can be playful, but it can also be reverent. Across the globe, purple has been the color of royalty and clergy for centuries. Unlike black and white, the colors typically associated with a minimalist sophistication, purple feels rich. It's sophisticated but in a more fabulous, maximalist way.

ZERO DENSITY YELLOW

Yellow is for happiness, hope and spontaneity.
Yellow is often considered the brightest and most energizing of the warm colors. It's associated with happiness and sunshine. It's the color of the sun, smiley faces and sunflowers. Yellow is a color that's happy and youthful color, and it grabs your attention with its hope and positivity. As a warm color, yellow can also feel upbeat and bright. Yellow is also associated with hope, as can be seen in some countries when yellow ribbons are displayed by families who have loved ones at war. Yellow is also associated with danger, though not as strongly as red.

ZERO DENSITY BLUE

Blue is for calm, trust and intelligence
Ideal to communicate that they're calm, cool and trustworthy. It's a popular color for tech brands, financial institutions and any brand that aims to communicate professionalism and dependability. Even if you aren't in the tech or financial sector, a blue color signals that you're an even-keeled, serene brand that isn't packing any (negative) surprises.

ZERO DENSITY WHITE

White is for simplicity and minimalism
Despite white light actually containing all colors, our eyes perceive it as a lack of color. And that "lack" of color makes white feel like a blank canvas, something new and full of potential. When used in design and branding, white creates a minimalist aesthetic. It can be very simple, clean and modern. It's also the most neutral color of all and can be quite non-descript as a base for other, more exciting, colors. White is a common color to communicate values like cleanliness, freshness and minimalism. Because of its association with minimalism, it can feel sophisticated...especially when it's paired with black.

ZERO DENSITY BLACK

Black is for power, elegance and sophistication
Black is an incredibly versatile color. Black is generally associated with exclusivity, power and elegance. It's bold, powerful and a little mysterious, which makes it a firm favorite of modern brands. It's a color that gives off a look and feel of luxury. Black is powerful and exudes an air of luxury when it's the main color. But it also works as a neutral, either contrasting or complementing lighter shades in a design.
